

There's been a lot of talk about "change" - but Dr. Louis L. Peralte has his own definition.

"Change is just a word," Peralte said at the Flushing High School polling site. "I want change but Obama is not the right man."

A staunch Democrat ever since he emigrated from France in 1965, Peralte voted for Clinton.

The 60-year-old family physician who works and lives in Flushing, Queens, said the former First Lady has White House experience while Obama doesn't have enough seasoning. "That lady knows what she is doing," he said.

"Obama's time will come but we need Clinton now."

• Pulpit Pitches Rankle Some Churchgoers

• African NYers Weigh Obama's Chances

• Dem Camps Scour City For Votes

• Caravan Races for Latino Vote

• Hillary's Broadway Babies Sing Praises

• 'Cosplay' Kids Bring Anime to Life